in finding the body.

Faller said: "The body was under the north bank and it looked to me as though an effort had been made to double the legs up. That may have been done so that it up. That may have been done so that would not take up much room while being brought to the canal. The first thing I neticed about the body was that a strap around the waist. That struck me was around the waist. That struck me as queer, but I understood it better when I tried to pull the body ashore. Then I found that the strap was part of one of those weight arrangements that are used to keep balky horses from running away. I realize that the woman zed when I saw that strap that the woman had been murdered. I looked all around to see if there was any trace of her clothing or anything by which her murderers could be traced. There wasn't anything, so I dragged the body upon the bank and went back to the bridge, where I told Inspector back to the bridge, where I told Inspector Blair what I had done. He told me to go to Jersey City as fast as I could and tell

Keller reported the case to the Second precinct police, who notified Chief Murphy County Prosecutor Erwin and Count Physician Charles B Converse, Dr. Converse sent George Newkirk, the Morgue keeper after the body. He found it where keeper after the body. He found it where Keller had left it, and brought it to the Morgue, where Dr. Converse made an examination. The woman was rather good looking, had long yellow hair and a general appearance of refinement. Her hands appearance of refinement. Her hands and feet were small and her nails were well kept. Her only disfigurement was the absence of almost all of her upper teeth and nany of her lower ones. It was evident hat she had been in the habit of wearing

From the first Dr. Converse was satisfied that the woman had been murdered. Th bruise over the right temple was a serious one and had been caused by a hard blow. There were two fractures of the skull, one on the left side and in the centre of the head. and the other on the same side, but well up. The gash in the abdomen had been made by a knife and was a clean cut. It was impossible to tell whether it had been inflicted before or after death. It was six

The weight which was attached to the woman's body was one made by the Covert Manufacturing Company. The mark of that concern was on it, but nothing else by which it might be traced. In the centre of the weight was a small depression. Across this is a small bar, and the six feet of strap attached was fastened to this by the usual snap clamp. The strap had gone twice around the woman's body, had then been tied in several knots and the snap clamp on the other end had been made fast to the weight alongside of the first one. Between the weight and the body there was not more

Little toward the solution of the mystery was done vesterday because the body was found in Kearny township, and the Jersey city police were delicate about intruding on the territory of their neighbors. All the real work was done by reporters: Some interesting things were discovered. Supt. Murray of the Zine works said that he rose at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and, planging from the window of his room into glancing from the window of his room into the canal, saw what he thought was a body about 500 feet away alongside of the north bank. As he was in a hurry to get to the factory he didn't investigate the matter. Later in the day when he heard about the finding of the body he went to the spot where he thought he had seen it in the morning and there found footprints in

"I investigated these footprints," said Murray last night, "and found that they went down in the water some distance. They were made at low tide, and so firm is the soil there that the rise of the water would not eradicate them. There was just one set of them, and they led up the bank and in an easterly direction. I followed them up on to the road, but missed them there I am convinced that they were the footsteps of the man who put that body in the steps of the man who put that body in the water. They are there yet, if the police care to go and have a look at them."

Two vehicles which crossed the Hackensack River bridge on Wednesday night are now being sought by the police. Joseph Johnson, the keeper of the bridge, says that one came from the direction of Newark about 10.20 cycleck. at about 10:30 o'clock. It was an old-fash loned buggy and the hood was raised. A man, whose features Johnson could not distinguish, sat in one side of the seat and large bundle alongside of him. In the rear there was a projection of about three feet, and on this, Johnson says, a trunk was tied. The man didn't stop on the bridge at all, and the last Johnson saw of him his carriage had disappeared in the direction of Jersey City.

Shortly before this carriage appeared sed cab, drawn by two fine black and driven by a man in fashionable livery went on the bridge from the Jersey City side, going in the direction of Newark. The curtains of the carriage were drawn, but the lamps were lighted. In less than twenty minutes this carriage returned.

Johnson is sure that it was the same carriage that came back and he is very much mystified, because there was no place that he could think of where a car-riage of that character would want to go between the two bridges at that time of night. Last night Johnson rang up John Kane, the keeper of the Passaic River bridge, and asked him if the liveried coachman had crossed his bridge at allon Wed-nesday night. Kane said he was very sure that no vehicle of this kind had passed him. If this is true this carriage must have stopped somewhere between the two bridges and right about where the body of Mrs. Pulitzer was found. Another story of a carriage which crossed

Another story of a carriage which crossed the Passaic Bridge at about midnight is told by Keeper Kane and his assistant, John Lynch. The lights on this carriage were extinguished and the shades drawn, hane says there were two men on the box, and that when he tried to look at them one of the men deliberately turned his head in an opposite direction. The other man was so muffled up that Kane couldn't make out his features, but his impression is that both men were young.

It is hardly likely that Mrs. Pulitzer's body was brought out on the plank road in this carriage, as it was only an hour or so before this time that the woman left or so before this time that the woman left her husband in New York. Several score of persons saw the body of Mrs. Pulitzer in Speer's morgue yester-day afternoon and last night, but it was not identified until 10 o'clock, when Mr. Pulitzer, accompanied by two women who described themselves as Mrs. Mortimer and Mrs. Rose, called at the morgue. Earlier in the day Pulitzer had called at Police Headquarters in New York and given a description of his wife to the sergeant on duty there. He wanted a general alarm sent cut for he wanted a general chief of Police Murphy gave out this statement at 1 o'clock this morning:

"Joseph Pulitzer's wife was Annie Nelson, daughter of Erastus Nelson of Perth Amboy. She was a wayward woman when Pulitzer met her, five years ago. He took a liking to her and married her and they had lived happily together. Pulitzer was an election district captain in his district and last Tuesday was out until about 11 o'clock at the primary elections.

On his return home his wife was waiting up for him. He said he was hungry and tired, and she said she knew a place at Sixth avenue and Forty-second street where she could get him some rolls. Before going she took several rings which she wore from her hand and left them with her husband, but she had two or three rings on when she she had two or three rings on when she went away, as well as a pair of diamond earrings and other jewelry. She appar-ently had no intention when she left home of going away."

CARS RUN GUARDED BY TROOPS

HUDSON VALLEY COMPANY BE-GINS TO OPERATE ITS ROAD.

Three Companies of the National Guard Called Out to Prevent Riot and Protect Property-Mobs Gather Along the Line-One Man Shot at Stillwater.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 18.- The Hudon Valley Electric road to-day succeeded in operating cars on nearly the entire portion and promises to run on schedule time within a day or two. Sheriff Austin of Washington county found difficulty in securing special deputies, so late last night he called out Company I of Whitehall, Capt. Dennis, and they reported at Sandy Hill at 7:40 this morning, 58 strong. They marched near the power station, just over the Warren county line, and went into camp alongside Company K, which was called out yesterday. A detail from each company met the 10:40 train and escorted C. P. French and a party of over fifty railroad men, who came up from New York and Brooklyn last night on the boat, to the railway buildings inside the guard lines, where they are being maintained. Two cars were started from the power station, southbound, at 11:30, guarded by a detail from Company I and deputy sheriffs. In Sandy Hill a large mob gathered. The men composing it were not demonstrative except with their mouths. District Attorney Pratt read the riot act. Some of the more rabid ones got on the track and dared the motorman to start, but when the car moved they got out of the way Near Baker's Falls, a Sandy Hill suburb, a fire alarm was sounded and the hose cart was run out and an attempt made to lay hose across the track, but before this was done the car ran into the cart, smashing it into smithereens. A large mob gathered at Fort Edward, but there was no demonstration and the cars returned to the barn. At places there were many jeers, and at one place a shower of nails came from buildings that were being constructed. On the return trip several cash fares were collected. General Manager Joseslyn will move cars to-morrow as nearly as possible on schedule time, and announces that reg-ular service will be maintained in a day or two. President Colvin refused to meet State Labor Commissioner Mackin and State Mediator Stark of Albany, who came here to endeavor to settle the strike, in response to request from President Fitzgerald of the

POST-PRIMARY DOUGH SESSION In Big Bill's District Only-His Troubles Coming at the State Convention.

Devery went over to the rooms of the William S. Devery Association last evening at 9:30 o'clock, and there all his election district captains were waiting to see him He went into an upper room and a guard was put on the door. Then two strong men carried a large bale done up in brown paper into the upper room. As they went up the stairs, the corner of the bundle which was so heavy that the bearers could hardly carry it, caught on a nail, and exposed a part of the contents to view. The contents looked like strips of paper about seven inches long and three wide, printed with figures and geometrical devices in

As soon as the bearers of the package had departed the guard on the stairs began to call out the names of the men in the lower rooms. Each hastened to the upper floor when his name was called, and soon departed from the building smiling and with his hand on his pocket flap. Information came to the city from several sources yesterday that James K. McGuire of Syracuse had received such assurances of support from other parts of the State that he has confident that he would be able bar Devery from the State convention to bar Devery from the State convention. In fact, it was said that there was no doubt that Mr. McGuire would carry out his threat to do this, and the general opinion seemed to be that he would be successful.

It was declared that because of this, the Hon. John C. Sheehan would make a contest before the Committee on Credentials, and that the committee would report in favor of seating his delegates.

The Matthews was bound around the cape from Newburyport and was commanded by Capt. Bonsey.

At 1 o'clock this morning the schooner was sighted by one of the Monomoy life saving crew coming down along the beach with a fair wind. The surfman knew the course could not be kept and signaled with his Coston light, but no attention was paid to him and in a few minutes the Matthews piled up on the beach.

Capt. Ellis and life savers rescued the seven men that comprised the crew by using the breeches buoy, but Capt. Bonsey refused to come ashore. At daylight he changed his mind and was taken off in a surf boat. One of the crew of the Matthews said:

"All hands were on the deck when the Coston lights flashed on shore, and there were a lights flashed on shore, and there were a good many orders given by every one. Some wanted to anchor, but Capt. Bonsey would not have this done. Finally I sang out, 'The vessel is surely going on this bar, captain.' The next thing I knew she struck the bottom with terrific force."

The Matthews will be a total wreck. She was built in Camden, Me., in 1882 and was owned in New York.

BUNCO MEN ROB MILLIONAIRE.

A. C. WHEELOCK OF LOWELL SWINDLED OUT OF $5,000.

He Is 84 Years Old and Drew the Money Out of the Bank so as to Play the Usual Game of Cards With the Sharpers -The Confidence Men Disappear.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 18. - Millionaire Andrew C. Wheelock lost $5,000 at a game of cards with two bunco men to-day. About 11 o'clock this morning, as he was leaving his residence in Nesmith street, he was accosted by a young man who introduced himself as Harry Pollard, son of A. G. Polard, a well-known bank man in this city The bunco steerer closely resembled Ma Pollard in appearance and Mr. Wheelock was deceived easily.

An invitation to the house of a friend or the purpose of inspecting some histories of Middlesex county was given and accepted. Mr. Wheelock proved an easy mark. After an introduction to a second man, who had a room in a High street house. he usual game of cards was begun, with the confidence men as the players. One lost heavily, which led Mr. Wheelerock to look u n him as "easy money."

n him as "easy money."
Then came the invitation to Mr. Wheelock to play, and he jumped at it. But he had no money, and the bunco steerers refused to recognize his check; so, at their suggestion, he went to the Union Bank and drew $5.000. Returning in a short time, he entered the game and was soon separated from his roll. There is no trace of the confidence of the confiden ridence men. It is supposed that the men were attracted to Lowell by the stories printed recently regarding the alleged disappearance of a member of Mr. Wheelock's appearance of a memoer of Mr. Wheelock's family. These stories have since been con-tradicted by the persons concerned. Mr. Wheelock is 84 years old, and until recently had the reputation of being one of the shrewdest business men in this city. His marriage several years ago with a woman only 35 years old excited considrable talk.

RUNAWAY AMONG CURB BROKERS. Several Knocked Down by the Horses,

but None Was Injured. A team of horses attached to a mineral water wagon ran away at the head of Broad street yesterday morning and plunged into the "curb crowd" further down the street. The curb brokers scattered, but not before a dozen had been thrown in a heap. None was injured, although several lost their hats. The runaway horses dashed into two other wagons, but finally

SECRETARY SHAW DISMISSES FIVE CUSTOMS INSPECTORS.

They Were Employed at the Steamship Docks and Have Been Found Guitty of Passing Personal Baggage Without Examination Their Names Withheld. WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. Secretary Shaw to-day directed the dismissal of five dock inspectors connected with the New York Custom House for accepting gratuities from returning passengers and failing to examine their baggage properly. The inspectors were suspended on Sept. 5 pending an investigation of charges, which had been made, and, the charges being substantiated, they were removed to-day The acceptance of bribes by inspectors made an offence by special provision of law, but as the briber is equally guilty, there has always been great difficulty in securing proof.

Regarding reports that have circulated in the past few days that there was to be a shake-up among the Custom House employees, the following statement was made yesterday at the office of Collector Nevada Stranahan:

There are seven inspectors under sus-pension pending investigation of charges ugainst them in connection with irregular-ties on the docks and as soon as the matter is decided the names and facts will be given out by the Collector. When it became known last night that the inspectors had been dismissed Col-lector Stranahan said that as a matter of official courtesy he was unable to make public the names of the dismissed inspectors and the details of the charges until he received official notification of Secretary

MORE WARSHIPS FOR PANAMA. The Cruisers Bancroft and Boston dered to Isthmian Waters.

Washington, Sept. 18.-The purpose of this Government not only to give adequate protection to the lives and property of American citizens in Colombia and guarantee free communication across the Isthmus of Panama, but to prevent any injury to the property of the Panama Canal Company, which the United States expect to acquire, was emphasized to-day, when the Navy Department ordered that the cruiser Bancroft be placed in commission immediately for service in Isthmian waters. The Department intends also to send the cruiser Boston to Panama, probably to relieve the gunboat Ranger, a much smaller vessel. In addition to these things, evidence of the determined policy of the Government to take every precautionary measure to care for its interests on the Isthmus was given in the declaration of a high officia that the 300 marines who are on their way hat the 300 marines who are on Colon on the cruiser Panther will be re tained ashore as long as present political conditions in Colombia exist. The Bancroft is at the Boston Navy Yard

The Bancroft is at the Boston Navy Yard and the Boston at the Puget Sound Navy Yard. With the addition of these vessels and the battleship Wisconsin the interests of the United States on the Isthmus will be guarded by four ships of war, two on each side, or, if the Ranger is not recalled, by five ships, three at Panama and two at Colon.

COLOMBIAN SHIPS MAY FIGHT. Insurgent Gunboat Padilla Scouting for

Government's Jessie Banning. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 18.—The Coembian gunboat Jessie Banning, which is now undergoing repairs at the Risdon Iron Works and is expected to sail for Panama soon, may meet with an enemy before she gets much more than half way to her destination.

The steamer City of Para arrived from Panama this morning and brought the news that the insurgent gunboat Padilla was at Corinto, Nicaragua, fitting out and preparing to intercept the Gove the Government's vesse formidable craft and should be able to give a good account of herself if she is properly handled. She carries four rapid-fire guns. Most of her officers are Americans and Germans. Chief among her officers is an American named Merle, and he has the reputation in the South American republic of being a great fighter and one who is

MONEY MARKET RELIEVED. $14.000.000 Added to the Money in Circulation Since Ten Days Ago. WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 -Since Secretary

Shaw suggested to the banks some ten days ago that they deposit additional United States bonds for the purpose of receiving deposits of Government funds, $4,819,000 of these securities have been received by the Treasurer of the United States The money in circulation has therefore been increased by a like amount and in addition there has been some $4,000,000 of public funds deposited with other banks which had not received the amounts equal to the bonds they had on deposit.

Together with the forestalling of the interest on Government bonds, which is interest on Government bonds, which is due on Oct. I nearly $14,000,000 has been added to the money in circulation within the past week. Added to the engagements of gold from Australia and South Africa the effect on the money market has been most beneficial, and in the opinion of the Treasury experts there should be no stringency in the money centres, for some time at least, and then only when created by an artificial demand.
